A Cappella Choir And Woodwinds Combine In Concert Tomorrow Evening In College Little Theater

For the first time in twelve years, San Jose State college's A Cappella choir and the Woodwind ensemble will play in a recital together. This event will take place tomorrow night in the Little Theater at 8:15 o'clock.

Combining the voices of the A Cappella choir and the tones of the woodwinds will be the privilege of Thomas Eagan, woodwind instructor of the college and also director of the Concert band and the Symphony orchestra, and William Erlendson, associate professor of music, leader of the A Cappella choir, and former singer in the famed St. Olaf college choir of Norway.

The Woodwind ensemble, the only group of its kind in the country, has 11 members, the same size it has always been. It was inaugurated in 1931 when Eagan first taught at the college. They have traveled throughout the state and to many music conferences in other western states.

The A Cappella choir was organized the same year as the Woodwind ensemble, by Erlendson, who came to this college the same time as Eagan. It also is a famous group, having traveled and played at many high schools throughout the state. Both of these groups are in great demand for performances, but for the duration they have ceased to travel.

The size of the choir has been cut in half due to the loss of many of the men and women to the service. In former years the group boasted of 60 members, now only 30 sing with them. However, balance of voices is still maintained. Eagan arranged the music for the Woodwind ensemble especially for this group.

Spartan Knights: We are to help at the assembly today. Please meet me in front of the Morris Dailey auditorium before the assembly.—Duke Hank Imsen.

THE STUDENTS' VIEWS

By GERRY REYNOLDS

Spardi Gras, 1943, was a huge success in the opinion of the students questioned by this reporter in a poll taken Friday right in the midst of the gayety. Asked what they thought of this year's festival, they replied:

Bill Morrow: I think we should have one every week.
Tom Marshall: I think Spardi Gras is here to stay.
Don Wyand: This year it's terrible . . . I'm wonderful though.
Betty Buckley: I think it's marvelous.
Ruth Bishop: Even though it's smaller, the spirit's still here.
Bill Mitchell: I looooooooooooooooooooove Spardi Gras.
Jeanne Lessard: I think it's just as swell as it's always been, and we still have a lot of spirit.
Boots Spaulding: I've never seen such a wonderful day in my life.

Swede Aronson: Best time I ever had.
Hugh Morris: We should have one every week.
Chuck McCumby: It's the best ever . . . it really is.
Roy Diederichsen: There's no better time than Spardi Gras to hug the girls without getting your face slapped.
Betty MacReynolds: Although the quantity is gone, the quality is still here.

Ethelyn Fuller: I think it's pretty fine.
Joe Talbot: Taking everything into consideration, I think today was a wonderful day, and a fine tribute to all the fellows who are leaving.

Barb Holbrook: I hope all the fellows had as much fun as I did, and I hope it helped a little in their send-off.
Pat Lynn: For the lack of population around here, I think there was plenty of spirit, and the day went over big.

Don Rouse: But heck, I just got here. (5:00.)
Barbara Whittaker: I think it was very good, and that the kids entered into the spirit very well.

Jerry Faber: I thought it was swell.
Elena Magee: I thought it was a lot of fun.
Walter Otto: I thought it was darned good . . . I had a swell time.

Jeanne Wright: It's as good as it's ever been.
Bill Payne: Disregarding the number of students, Spardi Gras was a swell success.

Mr. Frank Callahan: I think it was one of the most successful I've seen around here.

Jeanette Owen: I think Spardi Gras was the best day ever invented.

Bob Nerell: Great. Spardi Gras is all time, all time, good time.
King Bill Duran: In my estimation it was one of the greatest.
Queen Barbara Keaton: I think it's wonderful.
Scrappy Squatrito: There may not have been as many people, but it was tops.

Johnnie Umphries: Good picture material.
Jeanne Fischer: I think that in spite of the handicaps they worked under, the committee turned out a huge success.

Hugh Manley: It's been a lot of work, a lot of fun, and a huge success.

Bill Kidwell: It's better than any I've seen in the past three years . . . infinitely better. It's got a lot of drive.

Orlyn Gire: I think this year's Spardi Gras was a grand and glorious final touch to all of us for whom this year's carnival may be the last.

SPARTAN DAILY, TUESDAY, JUNE 1, 1943

Another Great Spardi Gras

Orchids are in order for Orlyn Gire, Jane Reed, and Hugh Manley for staging a most successful Spardi Gras Day. This day of days, possessing all its tradition and color, was especially meaningful for the many reservists who witnessed their last Spardi Gras day.

The wonderful spirit of the Spartan revelers this year on this particular day has surpassed many of the gayest and fully attended in years gone by. Never since its beginning, 15 years ago, has it faced so many obstacles. It was in spite of these that a new spirit arose in a college that has lost 60 per cent of its population in two years.

The crowning of a King, replacing the traditional Queen election in honor of the reservists, was one of the most prominent changes in the past customs of the day of festivity. The concession area in the quad was cut in half; the customary bomb declaring the opening of the day was restricted, as were many of the previous spirited traditions.

Originality, not elaborateness, played an important part in the awarding of the prizes during the Reserve assembly in the quad. The "Victory Queen," as winner of the most outstanding individual costume, was a perfect symbol of the patriotism that prevailed throughout the day. The war atmosphere influencing most of the costumes, and especially those that were awarded prizes, such as Allenian Society illustrating "Our Russian Allies," showed that this Spardi Gras day has felt the pangs of war.

To the fraternities, sororities, and committee heads a great big thanks for making this one of the most unusual and successful Spardi Gras days. —O'Brien.

WHERE TO GO WHAT TO DO

Garden City Creamery

Like thick, creamy milkshakes or deliciously flavored sundaes? There's a place not so far from State, in fact, within easy walking distance, where one may find everything from a coke and sandwiches to banana splits.

Staters as well as the townspeople go for a good cup of coffee, and the Garden City Creamery is just the place for this delicate rationed beverage.

It's just around the corner from Second street; so it's the place to go for that after-the-show snack.

Frank Campi

Have you a favorite piece or perhaps you have a piece that may bring back memories of a date that's far in the past? If it's recorded, Campi's will have it. The records will recapture moods and set you back into dream-land. Unforgettable Glen Miller captions are found on precious platters which may be bought at Campi's.

Campi's is near the school; so dash right down and add to your collection. Besides having zoot jive, there are classicals, spirituals, and waltzes to balance your selections.

Harry James and his trumpet, Glen Miller and his trombone, Harry Owens and his singing serf riders, and countless others are all there. Come in and see and hear for yourself. Private listening rooms are there; so one may hear the record before buying them.

Incidentally Campi's have sets of albums. Deanna Durbin sets, the famous Bing Crosby sets, on down to sets of records by Ravell, including his Bolero, are on sale now.

For those who wish to play something more than a radio or phonograph, Campi's have musical instruments such as saxophones, trumpets, accordians, guitars, and every other instrument you may crave to learn to play.

If you want something that takes little brain-matter to get good entertainment out of, look over and select a new radio or phonograph. Latest models are still on the buying list.

If you are talented and like to make your own music, a wide range of the latest sheet music is there for your disposal.

The Welcome

An evening of real pleasure may be had if you and your friends go to The Welcome some time for a game of pool, billiards, or snooker. You'll meet Staters and a lot of old-time friends to join in a game of stiff competition.

The Welcome is on Post street; so now that the summer days are here, one may enjoy a happy evening of entertainment after the short walk to get there.

Don't forget, it's The Welcome for an evening of real entertainment.

American Dairy

If it's refreshment you're looking for, the American Dairy is your next stop. With its fine reputation built up through many years of hard work, this creamery will fill your every want.

Milkshakes, sundaes, cokes, soup, salad, sandwiches are all on the menu. Quick service is always the motto at the American Dairy. The personnel of this creamery is the best and is under the finest management.

Be sure and remember the American Dairy at all times.

Italian Restaurant

For a unique dining place, go to the Italian Restaurant. The best foods are served, and the environment is very enticing and different.

A seven-course dinner is served in the best manner imaginable—soup, salad, raviolas, spaghetti and innumerable other appetizing dishes.

For club parties and gatherings get reservations at the Italian Restaurant—a good time is definitely assured.

Urzi's Auto Service

For quick service and particular work go to Urzi's for a check-up on your car. For many years this concern has held an outstanding reputation for good work and it has been hard-earned. Don't forget, the next time you need a quick looking-over of your car, go to Urzi's.

If the concession managers will come to the Controller's office any time this afternoon, they can count their tickets. If no representative comes, they will be counted by the Controller. This is very important if each organization wants to get its share of the profits. —Orlyn Gire.

THREE SPARTANS TAKE PLACES IN P.A.A.; TEAM SCORES 9 POINTS

Three San Jose trackmen garnered some points in the PAA championship meet held at Berkeley Saturday, giving the Spartan team a nine-point total in the scoring column.

Bud Veregge was the most successful of coach "Tiny" Hartranft's boys, by dint of his victory in the 220-yard low hurdles. Veregge beat out three very good men in winning the barrier event — Lou Futrell of Fresno, Gene Smith of California, and Corwin of St. Mary's Pre-Flight. His time was 24.5 seconds.

Elwood Clark added three points to the team total with a second in the javelin, and Vern Cooley got a fourth in the same feature.

Clark's farthest toss, 170 feet 2 inches, was not as good as had been expected and hoped. It was less than two feet beyond Cooley's mark.

The PAA rang down the curtain on the 1943 season for the Spartan track team, a season marked by disappointments, loss of valuable men, and valiant attempts of the remainder of the team and a new coach to carry on "as usual."

Only one team victory was hung up by San Jose, a win in a dual meet over Fresno State. In all the rest of their attempts, the team met with failure.

In the campaign's opener, the Spartans were mowed down by powerful opponents in the Stanford Invitational meet. Then came losses, overwhelming ones, in dual meets, to California and Stanford.

After these three defeats, San Jose finally got into the "win column" by dumping favored Fresno State, but in the Modesto Invitational, and in the PAA, the boys had to take a back seat again.

HORN HANDCUFFS SIGNAL CORPS; COMMERCE TRIPS BETA CHI TEAM

Allowing only two hits and striking out 13 batters, Kenny Horn pitched the P. E. majors to a spectacular 6 to 2 victory over the Signal Corps in one half of a double attraction played last Thursday afternoon on the San Carlos turf. In the other contest the Commerce "Clowns" went on a scoring spree to slaughter the Beta Chi Sigma team 14 to 4.

In the first contest, Horn was the complete master, with Goldstein and Posner the only men able to scratch out two singles, those in the sixth and seventh innings. In the first and last cantos he sent three men down swinging in succession, to give Abel Rodriques some competition in the strikeout department.

CERRO TRIPLES

Leading the P. E. barrage of hitting were Vic Cerro and Horn with a pair of safeties apiece. Cerro slammed out a long triple in his second trip to the plate to drive in three runs.

This victory gives the P. E. lads an even split in their games so far by virtue of their loss to the Grinders last week in their opener. The Signal Corps has a record of one win as against three losses.

In the other tilt the Commerce club found the services of Rice and Hay to their likings as they punched out 13 bingles for 14 markers. A. J. Berger was the big gun in the winner's attack, driving out two four-baggers in three trips to account for four runs. Bob Justice also fared well at the platter, garnering three safeties for his efforts.

THREE HITS OFF LOUDON

Loudon, who received credit for the victory, had little trouble with the fraternity boys, letting them down with three hits and striking out seven men. Goodhue, Blair, and Lewis were the only men able to connect with the southpaw slants of Loudon for safe blows.

There will be another double attraction today with the undefeated Grinders meeting the Speech department in the first game. The Speech department has been defeated in their only start and rate the underdog spot in this tilt.

In the other game the Commerce club will have a battle on their hands when they tangle with the P. E. majors at 4 p.m. The athletic men lost their first start to the Grinders but have since uncovered a pitching star in Kenny Horn and will be a threat to the clean slate of the Commencemen.

Tomorrow's game will find the Spartan Daily ten crossing bats with the Beta Chi Sigma in the only game.

Contests And Entertainment In Quad Highlight Of Annual Spardi Gras; Students Win Many Prizes

By FLORENCE KLEIN

With the quad as a stage setting, a program of contests and entertainment was given for the fellows about to leave for the Navy and Marines.

Jeanette Owen, vice-president of the student body, acted as chairman for the entertainment. Navy reservist and outgoing president, Tom Taylor, officiated as master of ceremonies for the contests.

Opening the program was a group of coeds singing "Goodbye Schooldays," written by Jack Breslin. Vocal numbers "As Time Goes By" and "For Me and My Gal" were sung by Renee Price, accompanied by Margie Smith. A bit of jive was furnished by Wayne Sargent. Then, that lovable character, Al Johnson, gave the audience a thrill with his masterful ukulele-playing followed by a pantomime with his girl friend, Marylou Montgomery, the title of which was probably "Get a Horse."

Marianne Jacobson gave a Spanish-styled dance.

The well-known five Delts sang "Manhattan Serenade," accompanied by Crawford Gates.

Opening a song-fest, Jeanette Owen did a tap dance, after which everyone sang "Anchors Aweigh," "Caisson Song," "The Marine's Hymn" and the unforgettable standby, "The San Jose State Fight Song."

Taking over the last portion of the program, Tom Taylor introduced the faculty judges for the contests, which were: Miss Florence Flanagan, Wm. Poytress, Dr. R. Rhodes, Dean Paul Pitman, Mr. Sevens, Markus Righsal, Owen Broyles, and night watchman Frank Callahan.

Winners of the Baby-Bottle contest were "Mama" Charlotte Rideout, who won a blouse from Hale Bros., and "Baby" Abel Rodrigues, who won a sport shirt from Hale's.

In the most outstanding individual costume a beautiful identification bracelet was won by Gordon Hay, whose costume represented a Fakir. Second prize, $2 in war savings stamps, was won by Jack Lamp, who represented a Padre.

Among the fairer sex, Jean Pickes, as a 1943 Miss Victory Girl, won a lovely compact set. Mildred Reman, dressed as a scarecrow, was presented with a bracelet with a San Jose State crest on it as second prize.

The girls drew a sigh of relief after the boys began shaving their heads when the beard contest drew to a close. Cyril Taylor was given a Shavemaster for having the longest and heaviest beard. For having the heaviest Navy reserve beard, Bill Kenny and Jim Gillan were both awarded service kit sets. Izzy Gold represented the Marine reserves for having a heavy beard. The most novel beard award, $3 in war savings stamps, went to Don Campbell, and Gordon Hay received a shave and a haircut.

The Allenian Society took away the laurels as these lovely ladies won the award for having the best dressed organization. The coeds were dressed as Russian allies, and won free passes to a theater.

The men's organization contest was won by Delta Sigma Gamma. Free passes to a theater was the prize as these gents decked out as a harem.

Gayety of Spardi Gras Undimmed As State Frolics

Breaking through the shadow of war with all the old brilliance it has had in past years as the day of days for Spartans who love their fun, Spardi Gras shone at its brightest on Washington Square Friday afternoon.

Old timers on-campus agree that this year's version of the annual fun-fest was among the best ever seen, and that the war-depleted student body of San Jose still knows how to do things up right.

Only in size was the traditional carnival in any way lacking in comparison with other years. Last year, the first Spardi Gras to be held during war-time, was nonetheless the usual nonsensical success, and for many of the 2000 or so students then in attendance was a social clincher to their college careers before entering the service.

This year, last Friday, Spardi Gras was dedicated to the 500 men still on-campus who are virtually the last Spartan males here for the duration of the war.

In good number at the affair were alumni of San Jose, many in uniform, who had come back to take part in this social event of the year, and recapture a bit of the nostalgia of their undergraduate days.

Besides the traditional contests, including the whiskerino, pie-eating, individual and organization costuming, best entertainment, et al., the day's schedule featured a variety show for the special entertainment of naval and marine reservists and the coronation of popular Bill Duran and Barbara Keaton as King and Queen of Sparta.

Yes, you can chalk up 1943's Spardi Gras as a triple-A priority on fun, a day not likely to be forgotten when Spartans are reminiscing in future years over the glories and escapades of life at San Jose State.

MARVIN DILLWOOD KILLED IN CRASH

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at Mather Field, Sacramento, for Lt. Marvin Dillwood, former San Jose State student, killed May 26, in a plane crash.

Lt. Dillwood registered here in 1939 as a physical education major, leaving two years later to enter aviation training at Merced. His wife, the former Eleanor MacTighe, is also a former Stater.

A first lieutenant in the air corps, Lt. Dillwood was instructing at Mather Field, but details of the accident in which he met his death were not learned.

While still a cadet in Merced, Dillwood named the Spartan Daily servicemen's column of last year, "On Land, On Sea, and In the Air."

La Torre track team pictures will be taken Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the gym.

THE STUDENTS' VIEWS

Kay Dorris: I think it was swell . . . everyone had a wonderful time.

Red Frazier: It was fine up to two minutes ago.

Jeanne LeFeuve: I had a wonderful time.

Marty Bartholomew: What I saw of it was fine, but I didn't get here until 3 o'clock.

Viola Coonrad: I thought Spardi Gras was nothing but a big success.

Joan Kennedy: It equals any we've had in the past.

Tom Algard: Quite choice.

Don Thompson: It was exquisite.

Hank Insen: Biggest Spardi Gras ever . . . I hope it will be carried on as tradition as long as the school stands.

Nettie Suhlson: It was very good . . . I enjoyed every minute of it.

"Bullet" Breslin: I think it was better than a Darryl F. Zanuck extravaganza.

Lorraine Titcomb: Considering the handicaps that Orlyn and the rest of the committee worked under, Spardi Gras was a huge success.
